Entrepreneurship as Self-Expression

Thursday, March 21 7-9 p.m. $20

To create is uniquely human and this ability is not restricted to the arts. Anyone who turns a business idea into reality has expressed themselves creatively in a way that gives their work meaning beyond “making a living.” If you are someone with an unfulfilled business ownership vision who also feels like a professional part of them is unspoken, this session is for you. Join author and professor

Dr. Ed Paulson as he presents entrepreneurship as a mode of self-expression that not only serves your personal and financial growth but also allows you to more fully serve others.
